whereas during the 1920s and 1930s the people of Croatia and Slovenia complained constantly about the "stupid, uneducated Serbs" who were asserting their new power, there is no longer any mention of this. Today the people complain of the "Government".
95 per cent of the people are opposed to the regime. however, there is no organized resistance	, and less than one per cent of the people would be ready to fight to change the regime.

- a. Approximately 100,000 top Party members hold all the posts of authority in the Government, industry, and commerce. In recent years, the prewar "elite" owners, managers, technicians, and engineers who had been reduced to the lowest level, have been given opportunities to take on jobs of considerable responsibility and high pay. Since the authority which should accompany the responsibility is retained by Party members, these gobs are not very attractive. For example, in a shoe factory:
 - 1) If the shoes sell well, the Party bosses get the kudos;

- If the shoes do not sell and there is a non-Communist sub-manager, he is blamed; and
- 3) If there is no non-Communist sub-manager and the shoes do notseell, it is the public who is being difficult as the shoes are excellent.
- b. There is a joke among men with managerial or technical capabilities, which says that "it is not important what you do, where you do it, or how you do it. The important thing is to be on a payroll and preferably on two." One sees many indications that this philosophy is widely practiced. On the other hand there is an urgent economic need for men with this background and undoubtedly many are accepting more responsible and higher paid jobs.
